Report on Awareness Programme 'Save Girl Child

Saraswati Vidya Mandir Law College Shikarpur, Bulandshahr organized an Awareness campaigning programme on the 10 August 2022 from 11 A.M to 12 P.M. The main objective of the programme was to create awareness among the people about the importance of girl child. The bigger objective was to discourage them against the female foeticide, a cancer for the society. There was a huge enthusiasm among the teachers and the students for the programme well renowned and eminent personality.

The Law students expressed her thoughts passionately on the topic and shared concern, she also quoted the constitutional provisions for the safety and security of girls. She further elaborated that a girl is the one who plays many roles in our lives. She is our mother, our Sister, our wife, our grandmother and many more. She is the cause of life, because of her we are in this world. Before a sister, a mother, a wife, she is a girl and if you are saving a girl you are saving your world. She explained that discrimination against girls in India has been going on since ages now. Even today, there are several sections of the Indian society where the girl child is treated as a liability. While several privileges are given to the boys; girls are often restricted to the confines of house and given very little or no opportunities to learn and grow in life. She emphasized the role of education is extremely important here and goes a long way in empowering women. And the process of education has to begin early in life. More and more girl children need to be sent to school provided quality and holistic education.

Advantages of lecturing method

1. Lecture is a passive method of teaching. Lectures are used to convey critical information, history, background, theories and equations.
2. Facilitating large-class communication. Large numbers of students get the benefit of gaining information, . Greater teacher control in the classroom,
3. An engaging format, which may complement and clarify course material,
4. Students listening skills develop
5. Help to learn languages and
6. Lecturing also permits the dissemination of unpublished or not readily available material.

Disadvantages of lecturing method:

1. Placing students in a passive (rather than an active) role.
2. Grabbing attention of students is very difficult.
3. Slow learners face problem in following teaching/ lecturing.
4. Encouraging one-way communication. The lecturer gives lecture and the students listen but don't interact.
5. Requiring significant out-of-class time for students to engage with the material, and
6. Lecture methods are constrained to class room teaching only.
7. Requiring the speaker to possess effective speaking skills.

Types of lecture method:

1. Oral also includes face to face lecturing method and online lecturing method.
Traditional
2. Textual/ multimedia includes PPT, CD's.lecture3. Participatory lecture includes debate / group discussions.
4. Problem solving. A problem becomes the focus for demonstration and generates various solutions.

The above methods from 1 to 3 come under the category of old traditional method of teaching. Lecture method should be used and is most effective when it presents information which students cannot learn on their own.

Steps to be followed in order to deliver good lecture while applying lecture method:

1. Know your audience (students, officials, laymen, professionals, workers, housewives. etc.)
2. Prepare a map to follow (lecture outline)
3. Start the lecture with an introductory topic (grab attention of the audience)
4. Recognize audience attention span
5. Plan an activity for the audience/ students
6. Use attractive way of presentation by way of audio and visual presentation tools
7. Have a conclusion, summary at the end of lecture and
8. Give assignments/ task for the audience/ students to prepare and come based on the lecture delivered.

Communication is an essential skill that everyone needs to develop and master to get ahead in life. Sometimes we assume that other people know how we feel or interpret our non-verbal cues, but this isn't always the case.

Taking the time to communicate your feelings and your thoughts can save you from unnecessary conflict and help you build stronger relationships with family, friends, and coworkers? Here are seven reasons why communication is important.

Why Communication is Important

Helps Build and Maintain Relationships

Communication is an important part of the human experience. It helps us build and maintain relationships with others. We can share our thoughts, ideas, and feelings to better understand how we relate to each other.

It's also important because it allows people who may not be able to hear or speak a chance to feel like they are a part of society.

We are also able to develop new skills by communicating with others and understanding what they say in return. Effective communication is something that can help us grow as individuals, help us make decisions more quickly, and allow us to explore our creativity more fully.

Aids in Problem-Solving

Communication is important in a business for several reasons. One reason is that it aids in problem-solving. When there are problems, the best way to solve them can be to communicate with people and let them know what the problem is and what the possible solutions could be.

This way, everyone has an opportunity to voice their opinions on how they feel should be done and if they have any ideas or thoughts. It also helps when employees are on break or late coming into work because they can then let someone know what has happened so that others can take over their responsibilities while they get back on track or get started with their day.

Increases Understanding

Communication is important because it helps us understand each other. It provides a way for us to express our thoughts and feelings, and to be sure that the person listening understands what we are saying. For example, when we try to get someone's attention in a crowded room, we might say excuse me or hey.

This tells the person that they should listen to us now because we have something important to say. Similarly, if someone asks us for help and we don't answer, then they may not feel comfortable asking again.

Finally, if one of our friends needs something from us but it takes too long for them to get in touch with us, then they may become angry or frustrated with what feels like a lack of concern from their end.

Prevents Misunderstandings

How to improve my personality and communication skills? Communication is key in any relationship. This includes friendships, romantic relationships, and business partnerships. Without communication, misunderstandings can happen. When there are misunderstandings, people may feel hurt or misunderstood and may not be able to move past them.

People will also tend to lose respect for one another when there are misunderstandings because they will think that the other person does not care enough about them to communicate properly.

If you communicate properly with your partner, friend, or business partner, it will help them trust you more because they know that you care enough about them to take the time to talk things through when issues arise. There's nothing worse than having a misunderstanding that can't be resolved so make sure to have an open dialogue with anyone who means something to you.

Creates Clarity

Communication skills in personality development might be one of the most important factors in your relationships, but it's often overlooked. There are many ways you can improve your communication skills and make your relationships better. Here are some tips to help you:

1. Be more expressive in what you say - use more words to explain yourself and show how you feel.
2. Listen actively - don't interrupt or advise unless it's asked for and take the time to hear what they're saying before responding.
3. Ask questions - get their perspective on things by asking them about their thoughts and feelings on an issue, rather than assuming you know what they're feeling.
4. Practice active listening - repeat back to them what they said so that they know you heard what they were saying.

Encourages openness

When communication breaks down, there are a variety of ways that it can affect your business. For example, if you have a team and someone isn't providing input or feedback to the project, then the progress will be slowed.

If you're on a customer service line and no one answers the phone, then people will be unhappy with your service. The list goes on and on.

It's the key to a successful relationship

Communication skills in personality development are vital to any relationship but are especially important in a marriage. You're going to have disagreements and arguments, which can be frustrating and hurtful, but if you don't communicate those feelings then your partner will never know how you feel.

And when it comes to something as important as your marriage, it's best not to keep things bottled up. Not only does communicating your feelings make for an emotionally healthier marriage, but it also makes for a more fulfilling one.

So, take the time to talk about your worries and concerns with your spouse, and let them know what they mean to you.

Communication skills in personality development are the most important skill that you need to have to interact with your colleagues and friends, from conversation starters to goodbyes; communication plays a very important role in our daily lives and also helps in improving our personality as well. Communication helps us to develop relationships with people and also play an important role in shaping our personality, so today we are going to discuss 10 ways how does communication help in improving your personality? Let's take a look!

1) Helps You Connect With Others

When you communicate with others, you can get your thoughts and feelings out in the open. This will allow you to have a better understanding of yourself and those around you. As you do this, you will likely see things in a different light and find new ways of looking at them.

Communication skills in personality development also help you build relationships with people and learn more about who they are. People need to be able to form connections with others so that they can learn more about themselves. With all of these benefits, it is easy to see why communication is so important for improving your personality.

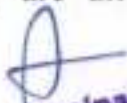

2) Develops Your Listening Skills

Listening is an important skill that can help you in your personal and professional life. When you are listening to someone, it is a sign that you care about them and want to know what they have to say. If you are not listening, it can make the speaker feel undervalued or unimportant. It also means that they might not be able to communicate effectively with you if they can't get your attention.

Listening is more than just hearing the words that are said; it means paying attention to what's being communicated through body language, tone of voice, and facial expressions too. This helps people feel heard and understood on a deeper level which can lead to a greater rapport between two people.

3) Helps You Understand Yourself Better

Communication and personality development is a two-way street. When you share your thoughts, feelings, and needs with others, they are allowed to understand you better. It also allows you to gain more insight into yourself by observing how others react to your words.

You may be tempted to think that people who don't react positively are wrong or that they just don't get you, but the truth is that there's always something good in what other people say because they see something in you that you might not see in yourself.

One of the best things about communication and personality development is being able to hear new perspectives on an issue from someone else.

4) Makes You More Confident

Communication and personality development is one of the most important aspects of any relationship. It can make you more confident, as well as understanding, and compassionate.

When you listen to other people and share your thoughts and ideas, it's a way of showing them that you care about what they have to say. This will make them feel valued and respected which in turn will boost their self-esteem.

Not only will this improve the quality of their life, but it will also help them see things from a different perspective.

If they're angry or frustrated with something, having someone who understands them might just be enough to show that person another side of the story. And not just because someone is giving advice, but because the act of communication shows an interest in what the person has to say.

A good example of communication and personality development would be when someone tells you about how something makes them feel and then ask for feedback on whether or not it made sense (whether or not it was accurate). If you validate their feelings by saying yes and agreeing with them, then this creates a feeling of trust between both parties.

5) Helps You Handle Criticism Better

When people criticize you, it's natural to get defensive. But there are many ways to respond to criticism that can help you become a better person:

1. Listen and think before responding. If the criticism is valid, thank the other person for their input.
2. Ask questions if you want more detail on what they're saying or why they see it that way.

3. Remember that nobody has all the answers and we all have different perspectives on things.
4. Admit when you're wrong and apologize if necessary.
5. Look at your mistakes with a sense of humor - it'll make them easier to deal with in the future!
6. Learn from your mistakes and find ways to avoid them in the future by reflecting on what happened.

6) Makes You a Better Leader

A person's communication skills help them become a better leader. For example, if you are in a leadership position and need to share information, you should always start by sharing what you know and focusing on the facts.

You want to be able to go into detail about the situation that is happening but make sure not to share too much information so that others are not overwhelmed with data they do not need to know.

When communicating with your team members, it is important that everyone feels heard and valued. It may take some time for people to get used to this new way of communication, but once they do it will pay off in the long run. People will feel more comfortable coming up to you when there is an issue because they know that their voice matters.

7) Makes You More Creative

There are many ways that communication can help you to improve your personality. One of the benefits is that it can make you more creative. This is because communication helps to develop your imagination and creativity skills. It also opens up new opportunities for you to learn about different cultures and things that you may never have heard of before.

This will expand the way that you see the world, which in turn makes it easier for you to use your creativity in a new way, as well as be more imaginative and creative in general. Another way that communicating with other people has helped me with my personality is by boosting my self-confidence. Because when I communicate with people I am opening myself up to them and telling them things about myself or getting them to open themselves up to me so I feel like we connect on some level.

That way when I talk to people, they are not just strangers anymore; they are friends to me who know something about me and vice versa.

8) Helps You Handle Conflict Better

Communication is a process of transferring information from one entity to another. It has two functions. One is to share thoughts, feelings, and emotions with others to make them understand what you are feeling or thinking about.

The other function is to convey messages and instructions for actions. Communication can be verbal or non-verbal. Verbal communication includes speaking, listening, and writing whereas non-verbal communication includes gestures, facial expressions, and body language.

Communication and personality development helps in improving your personality because it helps you handle conflicts better in society. You can communicate with other people without any fear or anxiety which will help you feel good about yourself as well.

9) Teaches You Empathy

Communication is a key to success in many aspects of life. It can make or break relationships, and it can change the dynamics at work. But there's another benefit of communication that you may not have considered: improving your personality.

Many different elements contribute to our personalities, but communication is a large part of how we express ourselves. Whether you're sharing your thoughts on something or expressing your opinion, it affects how other people see us and judge us. The way we communicate conveys information about our attitudes and personality traits, so it shapes how others see us as well as what they think of us.

If you want to improve your personality in any way, start by paying attention to how you communicate with others and what you say when you talk.

10) Encourages Lifelong Learning

Communication is often seen as one of the most important skills in life and it's not hard to see why. Learning how to communicate effectively means learning how to listen, debate and talk with people of different backgrounds, beliefs, and cultures. It means being able to express your thoughts and feelings clearly so that you can be understood by others.

Introduction: -

Access to justice is essential for rule of law. Access to justice, enable citizens to have their voices heard, exercise their rights and challenge discrimination. Access to Justice is not confined to court based legal services. It extends to making people aware about their entitlements under various enactments and welfare schemes and programmers and strengthening their access to the same. Some Legal Awareness Visit is being held by the State Legal Services Authorities to make people aware about their entitlements and apprise them about the availability of free legal services. In most of the visit, it has been observed, only creating of awareness is focused on. There is a need to affect paradigm shift from awareness to empowerment. For this to happen, a new Model of holding Legal awareness visit is required which would not only make people aware about their entitlements and procedural aspects relating to the same but also connect them to the welfare schemes meant for them. Delivery based Model for holding Legal awareness visit is required.

समान नागरिक संहिता की आवश्यकता

देश के विभिन्न राज्यों में अलग-अलग नागरिक संहिताएँ लागू हैं, जो नागरिकों के अधिकारों और कर्तव्यों को अलग-अलग ढंग से परिभाषित करती हैं। यह अंतर नागरिकों के बीच असमानता पैदा करता है और समाज में एकता को बाधता है।

समान नागरिक संहिता का अर्थ है कि देश के सभी नागरिकों को एक ही कानून द्वारा शासित किया जाए। यह नागरिकों के अधिकारों को सुरक्षित रखेगा और उनके कर्तव्यों को स्पष्ट करेगा।

REPORT ON CNE DAY SEMINAR

"Dr. B.R. Ambedkar's Thoughts on Indian Democracy, Constitutional Right
And Social Justice"

ON

14 APRIL 2023

Saraswati Vidya Mandir Law College Shikarpur, Bulandshahr was organized one day seminar on Dr. Bhim Rao Ambedkar Birth Anniversary 14 April 2023 in seminar hall. The seminar topic was "Dr. B.R. Ambedkar's thoughts on Indian Democracy, Constitutional Right and Social Justice". The program started at 10:30 am with the welcome address by Ms. Pramod kumar. The chief guest of seminar was Mr. Varun Kumar Singh circle officer, shikarpur and special guest Mr. Prem Chand Sharma Police inspector, Shikarpur. Opening remarks and introduction of the program was given by Mr. Pramod kumar. He was the chief anchor of program.

Mrs. Sweta Singh was keynote speaker of the seminar. She said that Ambedkar's thoughts, the Indian Constitution guarantees equal rights to all, based on social Justice and human dignity. It is observed, however, that Ambedkar's ideas of social justice could not be realized in a proper manner over the years. As such, his concept of justice will have to be propagated by institutions through civil society.

Ambedkar was concerned about the overall development of the vulnerable sections of the Indian society and he chose to demolish existing caste discrimination by enacting the Constitution. Therefore, Ambedkar's ideas of social justice remain relevant in contemporary Indian society in promoting constitutional and legal methods for upholding the rights and dignity of the vulnerable sections.

In this way the unique life of Bharat Bhushan Ambedkar has become a new source of learning and a new source of inspiration for devotees. From it has emerged a new deity, and the lamp that will be burning in its temple in this land of temples will be seen from all sides of the nation and from distant corners of the world. A new academy of knowledge, a new inspiration for poetry, a new place of pilgrimage and a new opportunity for literature have sprung up.

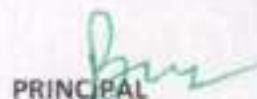

Mr. Varun Kumar Singh enlisted the knowledge of students y, we need to look at the nature of our politics and electoral system after nearly seven decades of the working of the Constitution. Over centralization of power at the union level and the first-past-the-post system of elections have exacerbated the worst features of a flawed democracy. Today vote buying, large consumption subsidies without addressing the structural problems of poverty and income deprivation, and increasing mobilization of votes by polarizing society on caste, region and religion have become the key features of our electoral democracy.

The Program was conducted by co-curricular Activity Committee .12 students had present paper in session. Student Anurag Bargoti , Mohit kumar Sexsena , Susmita , Khshboo, Juber Khan , Anshika and others were speak thought on seminar topic. 60 students present in this program .Mrs. Usha Gupta gave the thanks for all faculty members,non-teaching staff and all students whom were present in seminar.
